Uncontested Divorce Fairfax VA The Irving Law Firm Streamlined Process An uncontested divorce in Virginia is available when both spouses agree on all issues and have satisfied the separation requirement under state law. When the parties have no minor children and have signed a written separation agreement, the required separation period is six months. When minor children are involved, the period is one year regardless of whether an agreement has been signed. The Irving Law Firm guides clients through the uncontested divorce process with the efficiency and care that allows families to conclude this chapter with minimal unnecessary conflict and cost. Even when spouses are in agreement, the legal accuracy of the documents submitted to Fairfax County Circuit Court matters. The separation agreement must clearly address all marital property and debts, any custody and support arrangements where children are involved, and spousal support if applicable. The firm drafts these agreements in plain language that is also legally precise, ensuring that the terms agreed upon are correctly captured and can be enforced if needed in the future. Many uncontested divorces in Fairfax can be finalized by top criminal defense attorney affidavit without requiring the parties to appear in court for a hearing. The Irving Law Firm manages the paperwork, coordinates with the circuit court, and handles all procedural requirements so that clients can complete the process without unnecessary additional stress. When a brief ore tenus hearing is appropriate or required, the firm prepares clients fully so the appearance is straightforward.
