Booking a cleaning service should not feel complicated. There is no app to download, no lengthy online form and no automated chatbot standing between you and a real person. With The Happy Housekeepers in Roanoke, getting started takes a single phone call. Here is what the process looks like from first contact to your first clean.

Step one is reaching out. Call the office at (540) 774-4299 or send an email through the company website. You will speak with a member of the team based in Roanoke, not a call center in another state. Tell them whether you need residential, commercial, janitorial or specialized cleaning, and roughly how often you would like service. Options include one-time, weekly, bi-weekly and monthly plans for homes, and daily, weekly, bi-monthly and monthly schedules for businesses.

Step two is your free, no-obligation estimate. A representative will discuss your home or building, ask about the number of rooms, bathrooms and any priority areas, and note special requests such as pets, preferred products or rooms to skip. For commercial spaces, the conversation covers foot traffic, schedules and any specific requirements such as medical areas. You then receive a clear estimate with no pressure to accept.

Step three is scheduling your first visit. The office will agree a date and time that suits you and arrange access if you will not be home. Because employees are bonded and insured through the company, many clients leave a key or code. The crew arrives with all the products and equipment needed, though they will use your own products if you ask.

Step four is the follow-up call. After your first cleaning, someone cleaning service Roanoke from the office calls to make sure you are happy and to note any changes for future visits. This step has been part of the company since founder Mary Jane Wszolek opened for business in 1979, and it remains a hallmark of the service under President Paula Anderson.

From there, your plan simply runs. Recurring visits arrive on schedule, extra services such as spring and fall cleanings or oven and refrigerator cleaning can be added any time, and payment is easy with Visa, Mastercard, American Express or Discover. The company is licensed, bonded and insured and has been BBB accredited since 1993 with an A+ rating.

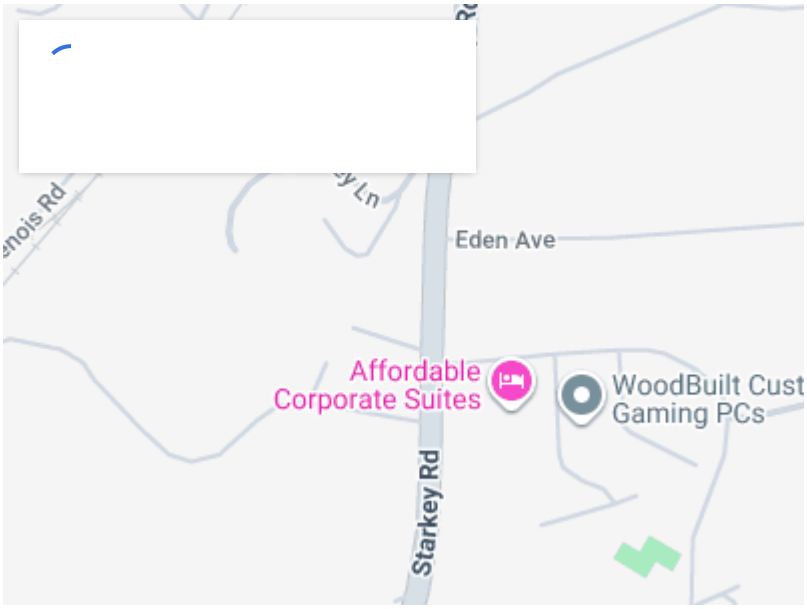

If you are not sure which plan is right, that is fine. The office can talk through the pros and cons of each frequency and suggest a starting point based on your household or business. You can begin with a one-time cleaning to see the results, then move to a recurring plan once you know what you want. There is no obligation at any stage, so the decision stays entirely in your hands.
